

The Johnson County School System Family Resource Center works in collaboration with teachers, administration, school counselors, and central office supervisors to meet the needs of our students and our families. Our commitment to you is that we will adhere to high ethical standards and will work hard to break down the barriers that your family may be facing.

FRC also collaborates with the schools in our district to create family enrichment activities such as family literacy nights. We strive to support an environment where parent involvement is encouraged in order to enhance student achievement.

Loads of Laundry

Loads of Laundry is a program operated by the Family Resource Center of the Johnson County School System. It is designed to ease the burden of laundry care for struggling families with school age children. Clean clothes and linens can make the world of difference for adults and children.

A free laundry event will be hosted on September 9 at the Lazy Day Laundromat from 5-7 PM. It will also be hosted from 5-7 PM on the first Monday of each month thereafter. The FRC will provide the quarters, detergent, and fabric softener for up to three loads of washing and drying per family.

Callouts will be made if the events are canceled/rescheduled due to inclement weather.

Who is Served by the FRC?

All Johnson County School System students and their families can benefit from services of the FRC.

The FRC works with students and families to meet needs that affect the learning process in the classroom. This includes services in schools, linking families to agencies in the community, providing free laundry services, hygiene items, and more.

Meeting the Needs of Our Students and Families

Resources & Referrals

The FRC assists families with school-aged children who live in our district and are experiencing homelessness.
